has successfully completed the online Specialization

Agile Leadership

In this Specialization, learners developed key skills for transforming traditional leaders, teams and organizations into agile ones through the application of the neuroscience of change, psychology, agile project and change management tools and techniques. They also learned soft skills like cultivating self-awareness and mentoring others for agility. Learners completed a Capstone Project at the end of the Specialization to apply their new skills.

This certificate attests to the learner's completion of an online program delivered via Coursera.
